

THE LIBERATORS

THE LIBERATORS

"Southern Blues-rock" from Maastricht. The many European tours took the band through many countries in Europe, from Spain to Norway. The band released 5 albums on major record labels such as Polydor, Phonogram, and the Swedish GMR record label.

Album 2020 and 2021

In 2020, the 4th album "Troubled Mind" ended up in the top 3 of best blues albums in The Netherlands. In 2021 the 5th album "Waitin'" was released on the Swedish record label GMR Music. Both albums generated more than 275,000 streams on Spotify and hundreds of thousands video views on Facebook and Youtube.

The music of The Liberators can best be described as solid blues-rock music with a clear link to the basis of contemporary popular music, the roots. The band plays live only their own repertoire. Several songs refer to those roots, such as the title track 'Waitin'' with a link to the heavy electric blues, Can't Wait Another Day and Look for More with a slight leaning towards almost symphonic blues with rock influences, and Clash with a nod to the punk, Money Talks with an almost Motown intro, Fooling Around with ska influences and finally Wrong Distraction as a more traditional fingerpicking blues song.

Sabbatical - documentary

The band was followed with the camera for a year by documentary maker Karin Hillebrand, which resulted in the documentary "Sabbatical", broadcast on Dutch television. The film is still available online.
